

Job Advertisement

To strengthen human capital, Fraunhofer Chile Research, in the project Salud Apícola 2020, is looking for a scientist with an education of critical and reflexive character, associated to the biosciences such as a biologist, agronomist or veterinarian or a professional in the field of animal sciences.

Expertise, skills and competences

- Knowledge and professional experience in the field of apiculture, with the handling of beehives and epidemiological aspects of Apis mellifera.
- Capacity to observe, interpret and analyze data as well as essential knowledge of veterinary medicine to identify and resolve problems in the field of health, well-being and livestock farming, in public health, zoonosis, the development of technical processes in production, protection, food safety and food quality, an efficient production in the context of sustainable development and in the preservation of the environment.
- Evaluation and systematization of the data collected on the basis of scientific evidence.
- Confidentiality of the information working with.
- Development of diagnostic processes, prevention, control and treatment of diseases of the western honey bee, applying suitable methods.
- Understanding and application of concepts, principles, norms and conventions, which support the care and well-being of the domestic and wild animals.
- Project development and evaluation.
- Knowledge and application of current technologies and the field use for the health of the western honey bee.
- Experience in the reproduction of bees.
- Ability to interact and collaborate in a multidisciplinary team.
- Use of written technical language and social elements of communication in Castellano and English.

Our department offers a market salary according to the capacities of the applicant, career development opportunities according to annual performance evaluations, an indefinite contract after a three-month probationary period, permanent exchange with the productive sector and a competitive environment.

Applicants should sent their application by e-mail to desiree.parra@fraunhoferl.cl by June 20, 2018. The application must include:

- Curriculum Vitae
- Cover letter, which must contain your own career prospects and your salary expectations
- 1 letters of recommendation